PRATT - LOW CANNERY OPENS BUSY SEASON

WORK BEGUN ON THE FIRST APRICOT CROP

The Redwood City branch of the Pratt Low Preserving Company began its active season yesterday when work was begun on the first of the apricot crop. The work was late this year due to the weather during the past week, and Manager Joe Gibbons looks forward to a short and consequently busy season at the cannery.

The apricots will be followed by a rapid succession by peaches and pears.

During the season when the cannery was shut down the whole plant was renovated under the direction of the manager. All machinery was torn down and repainted, oiled and put into gear for the long and continuous service which it must give during the short time in which the fruit must be done.

The plants were beautified by the painting of ornamental shades and of beds of flowers.

Under the direction of Joe Gibbons, manager of the local plant, machinery was installed that will actually double their capacity.

A new train of wash and kindred machinery was installed in the new section built last year. Included in the new equipment are two capping machines having a capacity of 75 a minute. This machinery was installed in expectation of a busy year during the peach season this year. The added equipment will require the service of twenty-five more canners than last year.

The plant will employ 750 persons beside the office force. Of these 600 are women and 150 are men.

The weekly payroll of the local plant during the season amounts to $15,000, most of which goes to local people and to the merchants of this city. For the reason the cannery is an important factor in the community.

It is one of the heaviest consumers of water in this city, its daily consumption being about 100,000 gallons. It also is one of the largest users of electricity in the city, with the exception of the cement works, in this section.

The equipment of the Pratt Low Preserving Company's Redwood City branch is one of the most complete in any of the coast. From start to finish every process is carried on mechanically with a minimum of handling. Large and expensive machines with seemingly human intelligence and more than human endurance are busy from daylight to dark filling cans, adding syrup, cooking the fruit and sealing the cans.

The product is directly supervised from start to finish, and is guaranteed under the care of trained operators, who grade and sort the fruit into six different sizes according to ripeness and quality. Fruit from the local cannery has made a world-wide reputation and hundreds of cases are shipped from here last year supply the demand in England and Europe.

No detail is overlooked by the manager of the local plant, Joe Gibbons, which will increase the safety and comfort of the employees. An emergency hospital with trained nurse is maintained at the plant.

FAIR PLANNED FOR COUNTY COASTSIDE
A fair to exhibit the products and beauties of the coastside of San Mateo County is being planned by the County Board of Supervisors. The matter was given the first consideration at a meeting of the coastside organization this week, and a committee was appointed to formulate definite plans for the affair, which it is planned to hold soon at some point on the coastside.

The committee which was appointed this week consists of E. J. Fry and Jack Glass of La Honda, J. W. Ferguson of Pescadero, John B. Sousa of San Geronimo and Horace Nelson of Halfmoon Bay. Plans for the fair will be submitted to the Coastside Civic League at its next meeting by this committee.

CEMENT PLANT UNIT WILL BE COMPLETED IN THREE MONTHS

A large force of men are being employed to speed up work on the second unit of the local plant of the Pacific Portland Cement Company which should be completed within the next three months, according to Harold Powers, manager of the plant.

The second unit of the plant will double the capacity of the plant and will cost when completed about $1,650,000, making a total investment here of about five million dollars for the company.

Speaking of the local plant recently, an official of the company said: "Our new cement plant located at Redwood City has been operating for almost three years. The first year's operation was no exception to the rule; we encountered many difficulties inherent in the starting of any new plant. All of these problems have been solved and the plant has been operating for over a year in a highly satisfactory manner."

Cement from the local plant was specified by the board of trustees of the school district for the new building being erected here. The largest shipment ever to leave the plant here was sent out two weeks ago, at which time two ocean steamers were loading simultaneously at the plant's wharf.

LOCAL TAILOR DIES WHILE IN SAN FRANCISCO

Heart trouble caused the death Sunday of Frederick Leist, well-known local tailor, while enroute to the Harbor emergency hospital in San Francisco. The local man was on Kearny street when he suddenly became ill. He went to a nearby hotel and asked the clerk to summon hospital aid.

Leist was taken in an ambulance from the hotel, but passed away before he could be taken to the hospital.

The deceased was a native of Germany and was 67 years of age. He had been a resident of this city for many years and had maintained a tailor shop here for years. His last location was in the D. R. Stafford building on Broadway. He is survived by two sons and two daughters; William H. and Edwin A. Leist, Miss Marcel Leist and Mrs. Emma Stent and by his widow Mrs. Mary Leist.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the parlors of Layne and Tinney and were followed by interment in Alta Mesa cemetery at Mayfield. Rev. A. H. Clark of the Methodist church had charge of the services.

LOCAL NEWS

Miss Gerda Hundevadt left Saturday for a visit with relatives in Kansas. The young lady expects to be away for about three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Choate and daughters, Alberta and Mildred, Mrs. K. Whitehead and daughter Ruth; "Sonny" Hansen and Mr. Brockway spent the week end at the Big Basin.

County Recorder and Mrs. T. C. Rice spent the week-end at Fort Bragg in Mendocino county.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stevens, who have been making their home in New Orleans, are on their way to this city. They are motoring across the continent, and will probably make their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilman Merrill and family have returned for a vacation spent in camping in Sonoma county and other points of interest in the northern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Doocey and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Stokes and family have returned from a week spent at Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Williams and son, who have been touring Europe and the eastern states for the past several months, returned to their home on Edgewood road this week.

Roy Holts of Pleasantville, Pa., who was to have joined his wife here this week and later return to their home in the east, has been delayed. Mrs. Holts has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Ida Corwin, for the past several months.

Miss Marie Skelton has just arrived from Vancouver B. C. to visit her sister Mrs. Carl Hubbel of 736 Main Street. Miss Skelton has expressed a wish to take out Americanization papers and become a regular citizen, she is planning to help Mrs. Hubbel with her adjustment bureau in the Stafford building. Miss Skelton reports a favorable trip on the H.F. Alexander, the weather being quite calm.

"In view of the satisfactory operation of the plant, low cost of manufacture, ample supply of raw materials, favorable location as to rail and deep water transportation and close proximity to large consuming markets, we considered it very unwise to defer increasing the capacity of the Redwood City plant."

The cement manufactured at the local plant has been found to be of a very high grade and is highly recommended for street use where a very strong cement is necessary. The board of trustees of this city have tried the local product on streets and have recommended its use by all contractors doing work for this city.

Cement from the local plant was specified by the board of trustees of the school district for the new building being erected here. The largest shipment ever to leave the plant here was sent out two weeks ago, at which time two ocean steamers were loading simultaneously at the plant's wharf.

POPULAR LOCAL COUPLE MARRIED IN BURLINGAME

The wedding of Oscar H. Olson and Miss Bessie DeYoung, two of the well-known young teachers of the county, is reported to have taken place on Wednesday morning at the home of Rev. W. A. Brewer in Burlingame. The wedding was a quiet one and was supposed to be a secret from even the close friends of the young couple.

Mrs. Olson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. DeYoung of Eaton avenue. She is a graduate of the University of California, and during the few years in which she has been teaching in Redwood City she has made an enviable reputation as an instructor. She was principal of the Lincoln school during the past year.

The groom is very well-known here where he has spent the greater part of his life. He is a graduate of the local schools and of the University of California, and was for some time connected with the First National Bank. He was instructor in the intermediate school here for several terms and for the past year was principal of the Halfmoon Bay grammar school. Here he distinguished himself by the excellence of his instruction and by having his eighth grade graduate with honors. He has recently returned from a convention of the National Educational Association at Seattle, to which he went as a delegate from the Bay section of the State Teachers' Association.

It is understood that the young couple are now enjoying their honeymoon in the southern part of the state. Upon their return they will make their home in Halfmoon Bay.

WOMEN SWIMMERS TO FEATURE EXCHANGE CLUB CARNIVAL

The water carnival scheduled by the Redwood City Exchange club Sunday will be featured by exhibition performances of three outstanding women athletes. The women are Lillian (Bunny) Ferguson, fancy diving champion of the Pacific Coast; Miss Montana Morgan, sprint champion, and Miss Edna Williams of this city, free style and back stroke title holder. The carnival will be featured by a relay race in which these women as well as other expert swimmers will take part.

JUDGE HUDNER GRANTS SUNDAY LAW RESTRAINING ORDER TO STONE CUTTER

A restraining order enjoining the town of Lawndale from enforcing its Sunday law against tombstone manufacturers of that city. The injunction was obtained by Nello Bocci of the firm of Bocci & Sons, who was arrested under the recently passed ordinance. The matter was set for hearing before Judge Buck on July 21.

WORK IS RUSHED ON NEW BUSINESS BLOCK

Work was being rushed this week on the new building being erected by Gus Waller for H. B. Gardiner. The building adjoins the one now owned by Gardiner and which is being renovated to give a uniform front with the new addition. When completed, the new part of the building and the store recently vacated by Bole Radio Den will be occupied by Gardiner's haberdashery and shoe stores, respectively. These stores are now in another part of the building. It is expected that the building will be completed by the middle of next month.

FEATURES OF COUNTY SHOWN IN DISPLAY

Through the courtesy of the Emporium in San Francisco the features of San Mateo county are being vividly set before the people of San Francisco in the form of a huge wall map which has been placed in the window of the San Francisco store. The map is 70 feet long and 11 feet high and is calculated to show the various points of interest on the peninsula as far south as Mountain View.

In the foreground an artistic window display has been arranged showing miniature homes, golfers, lawns and rural scenes. On the map itself are pictures of points of interest including the courthouse, the Redwood City harbor, the factories here, beautiful homes, the Sequoia high school and other features of the county. The map was prepared by the combined efforts of the chambers of commerce of this county and Palo Alto and the Coastside Civic Union. It is a permanent affair and will probably be used in connection with the county exhibit at the state fair in Sacramento and also by the trade and travel exposition to be held shortly in San Francisco. The map is a fine advertisement for the peninsula and shows more graphically than an ordinary map could the high spots of the county.

TO INVESTIGATE PLANS FOR COMMUNITY HOSPITAL HERE

The feasibility of securing a community emergency hospital in Redwood City was discussed at the Wednesday meeting of the Redwood City Kiwanis club this week. The matter was brought to the attention of the club a month ago by Dr. J. N. Blood, and was brought up this week.

This city needs such an institution, Blood stated, it would fill an actual and acute need and would result in a great saving to the people of the town.

President Charles Lambert of the Kiwanis club appointed a committee to consider the matter and lay their plans before the club. Dr. Blood was chairman of this committee. The other members were:

Wills Ayres, Dr. Herbert Clattenburg, Roy W. Cloud, W. A. Crowell, Elmore B. Hinman, C. M. Doocey, J. D. Hedge, John Isaac, Sam Winklerbeck, William Alexander, Jos. B. Gibson, Zeph T. Noonburg, Carl Stoner and Edward Harrison.

AX WELDER RELEASED

Tom Bersonne, who was charged with grand larceny and attack with a deadly weapon, was released Tuesday by Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin. The case against Bersonne was continued indefinitely. The charges were brought by E. A. Siron, brother-in-law of Bersonne, who alleged that Bersonne had attempted to steal his horse, and when he demonstrated, chased him with an ax.

FIRE APPARATUS IS WRECKED WHILE ON WAY TO GRASS FIRE

An automobile belonging to Albert F. Beutler of San Juan and driven by Mr. W. E. Stocking of San Carlos, was badly wrecked Wednesday evening when struck by the large Sequoia truck of the Redwood City fire department. In the car with Mrs. Stocking at the time were her husband and three young grandchildren.

Mrs. Stocking was on Broadway when the alarm was sounded, and when she heard the fire truck siren, she pulled over to the curb at the corner of Webster street and Broadway, in front of the court house. She parked at the curb near one of the palm trees which grow in the parking space along the court house block.

The fire truck, driven by Stanley Woods, came down Webster street from the fire house and in making the turn onto Broadway, failed to clear the car at the curb and struck the Stocking car in the rear.

The force of the impact threw the car over the curb and against the palm tree, which was snapped off at the ground by the car. The car was badly damaged, both by force of the car at the rear and by the impact of the tree. Both ends of the car were damaged and the occupants were more or less badly off with the flying glass from the window.

The most seriously injured of the occupants was Stocking, who received a bad cut in the head which bled profusely. The occupants of the car were hurried to Dr. H. M. Clattenburg's office where their cuts were treated. The car was removed to the Sequoia garage.

Witnesses stated that the accident was caused by the truck striking the traffic button in the middle of Webster street. This threw the heavy and speeding car off its course and off to one side just as it was negotiating the turn. Great credit is given to the driver for his presence of mind in handling the truck following the accident, and several other cars were periled by the heavy machinery.

A checkup of the damage to the fire truck showed that the front axle had been twisted by the blow and that the springs and fenders in the front had been bent. It was necessary to have the truck towed back to the firehouse and send the other truck to the fire, a small grass affair at the end of Hopkins street.

MAN RUN OVER WHILE SLEEPING IN TENT

To be rudely awakened from a sound sleep by the passage of the front wheel of an automobile over his abdomen was the decidedly unpleasant experience of Fred Brohlin, a plasterer of Oakland Sunday night. Brohlin and a companion were to have started work on a house under construction in the south of the city limits of Redwood City. They had come on Sunday and were prepared to camp near the house while a work on it.

The two men pitched their tent near the side of the road and retired for the night. After dark R. E. Davis, intending to pull off the road and stop, turned his car from the road without seeing the tent in which the two men were asleep, and ran through it. One of the men passed completely over Brohlin.

The injured man was removed to the Redwood City hospital and after emergency treatments there was removed on Monday morning to the Community hospital at Beresford. His condition is still said to be serious, but hope is held for his recovery.

AGED COUNTY JANITOR PASSES AWAY AT HOME

His death following a long illness, Manuel J. Simmons, for the past 20 years janitor at the San Mateo county court house, passed away Sunday at his home at 543 Hamilton street. The deceased was a native of the Azores Islands and was 71 years of age. He had been a resident of this city for many years and had previously resided at Halfmoon Bay. In this city the family have made their home at 543 Hamilton street.

Funeral services were held Monday from the parlors of the James Crowe Co. and thence to Mt. Carmel Catholic church where a mass was celebrated. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery at Colma. The funeral was attended by hundreds of friends of the deceased, many of them from the coastside of the county. Rev. C. E. Kennedy celebrated the mass.

The deceased is survived by a son, Joseph J. Simmons, and three daughters, Miss Delphine Simmons, of this city, Mrs. L. D. Swift of Monterey and Mrs. Joseph R. Francis of San Francisco.

CROWDS GREET GREAT ORCHESTRAL LEADER

The symphony concert next Sunday in Hillsborough will be conducted by Oskar Gabrieliwitsch. This will be the season's second appearance of this famous director, his first having been made last week when he was given an ovation by the throngs of music-lovers who were present to welcome his return this summer in the concert series he is giving under the auspices of the Philharmonic Society.

Among the most popular of conductors, Gabrieliwitsch draws record crowds wherever he appears. Noted as a concert pianist all over the world, as an orchestral conductor he is equally celebrated. For several years he has been permanent director of the Detroit symphony orchestra, and guest conductor with all the important European and American symphony orchestras.

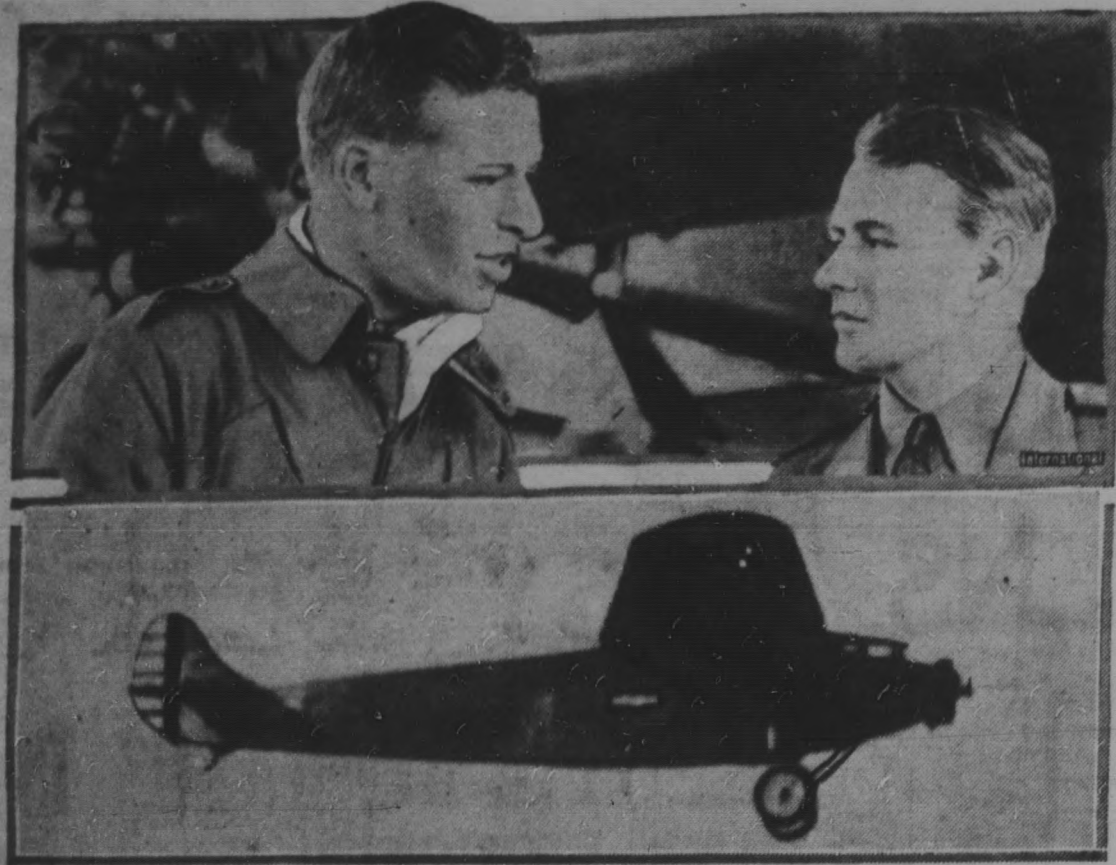

The program for Sunday is as follows: Overture, "Rosamunde," Schubert; Unfinished Symphony, Schubert; Academic Festival Overture, Brahms; Third Symphony, "Divine Poem," Scriabin.

One of the best known and popular scores among all symphonic literature is the Schubert Unfinished Symphony. Full of lovely melodic themes with rich and colorful orchestration, it is ideally suitable for open-air performance, as well as serving a charming medium for the expression of the poetic temperament which is so characteristic of Gabrieliwitsch.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Tangible proof of the growing desire of citizens of California to make up for lost opportunities for education, is now offered by the University of California which has found it necessary to purchase a four story building in San Francisco at a cost of $147,000, plus $50,000 in alterations, to accommodate those people who wish to take extension work. The extension division of the University offers practically every subject taught on the main campuses either by special classes throughout the State, or by correspondence. Including lectures and visual programs far in excess of 1,000,000 people are reached each year.

Evidence believed to indicate that high-graders have been operating in the workings of the original Sixteen to One gold mine at Alleghany, Sierra county, has caused an investigation to be undertaken by officials of the State Mining Bureau. Just how much ore has been stolen is in doubt, but H. J. Langdon, executive superintendent of the mine said that the loss, if any was established, would not be more than $3000.

Ten dollars was paid for the last reminders of Bidwell Bar of the early '80s, scene of the first gold strike in Butte County. For this sum, B. L. McCoy, clerk of the Butte County superior court, purchased an acre of ground at the historic site at a delinquent tax sale conducted by the county tax collector. The property includes the historic home of Isaac Reeves Kecham, the Mother Orange tree and the monument erected and dedicated to the pioneers of California by the Native Sons and Daughters last fall.

Cancellation of the diving act at a Venice pier resort, following the drowning of the horse Lightning, was announced following a conference between the owners of the act and Ocean Park Amusement Association. Lightning, after diving forty feet from a platform, swam out to sea instead of shoreward and when expert swimmers finally headed the floundering animal ashore, it expired on the beach. Leona Carver, owner and rider in many leaps into the water, fainted when the pulmotor failed to revive her pet. Lightning was said to be valued at $20,000. Only a few hours prior to the act, the tragically Municipal Judge Wilson of Los Angeles had ruled that pier promoters and the show owners had not been guilty of cruelty to animals in compelling the horse to dive, as charged by humane society officers.

The services of fourteen submarines and attending vessels have just been offered to the University of California by Captain Ridley McLean, commanding officer in charge of the Submarine Divisions of the United States Navy, for the purpose of making studies of the surface temperatures of the Pacific Ocean between California and Hawaii. The value of gold, silver, copper, lead zinc produced at the mines in California in 1926 was $20,050,801, a decrease of $3,233,853, or 14 per cent, as compared with the value of these metals produced in 1925, according to statistics compiled by J. M. Hill of the bureau of mines. There were decreased yields of 9 per cent in gold, 40 per cent in the value of silver and 30 per cent in the value of copper, but increases of 13 per cent in the value of lead and 76 per cent in the value of zinc produced, as compared with the values of these metals in 1925.

The order for the second ship for the Panama Pacific Line service has just been placed. The new steamer will be 30,000 tons displacement, and identical in every respect with the company's new steamer "California," which will be launched in October. With this new tonnage the Panama Pacific Line will have the two largest ships ever built under the American flag, with a contract speed of 18 knots per hour, they will cut two days from the present length of the voyage between New York and California ports. Each steamer will have capacity of 800 passengers and 8,000 tons of freight. Special attention was given in their design for refrigerated cargo, and each ship will have 100,000 cubic feet of space available for shipment of fruits and other perishable commodities.

Two of the oldest United States land offices in California were closed last week, those at San Francisco and Visalia, and their activities transferred to Sacramento. Nearly all the valuable public lands in the Visalia and San Francisco districts having been taken up by homesteaders, the Government decided these two offices are no longer necessary. With the exception of a land office at Los Angeles—which, it is expected, will be closed next year—only one of the dozen that once existed in California remains. That is at Sacramento.

Because of the rapid growth of Marin Junior College at Kentfield, Marin County, and the greatly increased enrollment indicated by application for entry at the fall term, the directors have found it necessary to construct a new building. Bids have been called for a one-story frame, stucco finish building to house two laboratories and a library.

California, supporting 5,000,000 people at the present time, should have 15,000,000 within her boundaries. This is the opinion of Stephen Barnson, state real estate commissioner, as expressed in a letter read before a board of directors' meeting of the California Real Estate Association recently. To secure the additional population Barnson advocated that the State of California set aside a sum of money for a nation-wide advertising campaign and create a state bureau of information to collect and classify all the resources of the state, pointing out opportunities in every line of endeavor.

City-owned water systems in the 152 California municipalities where they were maintained last year returned a total revenue of $16,595,242.11, against total ordinary expenses of $8,781,628.92. From the sale of water only the cities realized $14,653,919.84. All but one of the twenty-two city-owned electrical systems returned handsome profits. The city showing a loss was Biggs, where the receipts were only $5,399.25 and the expenses $5,672.39. Considered as a whole, the plants returned $15,104,957, against expenses totaling $7,842,123. These receipts included $13,018,093 for the sale of light and power.

The orange belt city of Santa Ana scored a new marriage license record during June in its bid for the honor of being Southern California's Gretna Green. The figures were 635, compared with 523 for June last year.

Registration figures for summer Session at the University of California at Berkeley, reached a total of 4894 at the close of the fifth day, Recorder James Sutton reports. This figure is 3.4 per cent larger than the total for the corresponding day in 1926, but is slightly smaller than the equivalent figure in 1925. It is expected that at least as many students will register this year as did last year when a total of 4975 was reached.

Substantial gains in the assessment rolls of both the city and county of Sacramento are shown in reports filed with the City Council and the Supervisors, respectively. The grand total assessed valuation for the county is set at $164,289,520, this figure being more than $19,000,000 over the 1926 total. That Sacramento has $26,860 is also shown. For the city of Sacramento, the assessed valuation is $103,673,360, which amount is $4,000,000 in excess of last year's total.

During the first three months of 1927 commercial fishermen operating in the inland waters and off the coast of California in the Pacific Ocean caught and marketed 159,390,739 pounds of fish, according to the quarterly report compiled by the Department of Commercial Fisheries of the State Fish and Game Commission. The greatest volume of fish caught was 147,840,632 pounds of sardines taken during this three-month period. Running next comes rock cod, which totals 2,401,811 pounds, and next is sole, which totals 2,225,476 pounds.

Celebration of Gov. A new map of Tehama County, replacing the present map, made in 1903, and now obsolete, has been completed by County Engineer C. A. Luny. The new map will be three by six feet, and will contain all points in the county, locations of state highways and county roads, and will show the ownership of all land tracts and farms.

California's 400 National Guard officers, last week received checks from the State for $23 each as their clothing allowance for last year, which is the State's payment for the upkeep of their uniforms.

The historic Union Church and seven dwellings in the pioneer mining town of Shasta, eight miles northwest of Redding, were destroyed by fire recently with a loss of $50,000. The most serious loss was the names of thousands of persons who had been buried from it. The bell was one of the finest in the State, having a sweet tone, seldom duplicated.

Ranking fifth in the national list for highest total values of property subject to taxation, and third among the States compelled to make large annual payments for Governmental functions, California last year was one of three States which went through the fiscal period without making a property tax for State purposes.

Work of remodeling the Masonic Temple in Napa is now under way, and will be completed in two months. The entire front of the three-story building is to be changed to Mission type of architecture and the old tower of the structure will be removed. The temple was built in 1889.

Howard Chaffee, former University of Southern California track star, is reported to be in Toronto where he will enter the Lake Ontario swim for a purse of $50,000, August 31. Chaffee was one of the last six men to leave the water in the recent Catalina Island swim.

Charity and correction work in the various counties of California last year represented an outlay of $16,319,556, the larger part of which went for maintaining county hospitals and for caring for indigents outside almshouses.

An appeal to motorists to aid in the California forest fire prevention campaign has been issued by Frank G. Snook, chief of the State Division of Motor Vehicles. He urges that muffler cut-outs be kept closed during trips through the mountain country and that care be taken by motorists who smoke.

For This Once Mandy

Had to Compromise

Mandy was an incurable optimist and the embodiment of kindness. She would never admit that anything was wrong with anyone, although sometimes facts pushed her hard. Her young mistress had many suitors, and the latest recruit to the ranks could boast as little in the way of good looks as was humanly possible.

"Grand looking chap, isn't he, Mandy?" queried Miss Marie's mischievous brother when the guest had departed.

Mandy teetered perilously between truth and charity. "C'ose he was," she answered presently with dignity.

"Han'some gennuine—han'some gennuine!" At that point honesty got the upper hand. "Cepin'," she added conscientiously, "fo' his features."

Elevator for Mount Blanc

Mount Blanc, Europe's tallest mountain, will soon be "climbed" by elevator. The cableway, with a car similar to a hotel elevator and carrying from 50 to 70 people, will soon be in operation from Chamonix to the summit of Aiguille du Midi. The ascent may then be made in two hours and without guides. Construction of the elevator cableway was started 17 years ago, but was interrupted by the war.

Taxation and Politics

Inasmuch as legislative bodies—local, state and national—are constantly considering the tax question, the classic discussion of taxation which William Bennett Munro, the Harvard political scientist, gives in his book on Municipal Government is of interest. Mr. Munro says:

"Economists define taxation as the levying of certain compulsory contributions upon individuals and corporations in order to provide public revenue. The assumed purpose of taxation is to provide public revenue; its justification is the common benefit which comes from the expenditure of this revenue. That is taxation as the economist sees it. But tax laws are not enacted by economists; they are the handiwork of politicians. And the politician has a very simple philosophy of taxation. To him, taxation is a system of levying compulsory contributions in whatever way will produce the least outcry. From the politician's point of view, the measure of taxation is not ability to pay, but inability to resist. His favor leans to the element that can produce the votes. He tempers the wind, not to the shorn lamb, but to the ram with horns. Public sentiment, of course, is that one element of organized selfishness is more audible than another. That is why the most desirable tax, in the eyes of the average political representative, is a tax on the estates of deceased persons, for dead men have no votes."

The foregoing is rough but simple and it hits the bullseye of truth.

If the politicians doubt this, they should check over the emphatic manner in which the people have voted down new tax-raising schemes and office-creating laws offered for their approval at recent elections.

Stop Fire Waste and War Waste

We save the cost of a battleship or two in Limitation of Armament Agreements between nations. The public may well take some pride in this achievement and figure out the saving in pennies to every man, woman and child in the country.

But, there is a still bigger tax—FIRE—going on with only a feeble voice here or there trying to limit the cost. Where the saving to each of us in the case of battleships can be figured in pennies, the cost of unnecessary fire loss must be figured in dollars.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters in a little booklet just published points out thirty-two ways in which our children may help to prevent fire. It is equally as desirable to save life and property from fire waste as from war waste.

BAY HIGHWAY COMPLETION

STRESSED AS NECESSITY

The necessity for completing the Bay Shore Highway in this county was recognized this week at a meeting of the recently formed industrial committee of the San Francisco chamber of commerce. L. G. Head in addressing the meeting of the committee stated that the most vital piece of work with which the committee is confronted is the completion of this new trade artery.

Philip J. Fay, president of the San Francisco chamber of commerce, also stressed the need of this road. Fay stated that San Francisco must develop adjacent territory in order to care for her rapidly increasing population. The present growth of population and of industry as well as an anticipated future growth make the Bay Shore road a necessary part of the San Francisco's development completion of this new trade artery.

It's a Good Old World

I met a friend of mine the other day. And he was chuckling in the same old way. He chuckled when I knew him years ago. "Just look at this," he said, "and you will see. What fifteen years have done for you and me! A picture always tells the truth, you know."

I looked, and saw a maiden and a man, Designed according to an ancient plan— They were "the snappy stuff" in nineteen-ten! Her dress was long—she had no legs in sight! And, gosh, her waist was corseted so tight! She certainly was on a diet then!

And hats were hats in those artistic years! No ruthless "bobber" had applied the shears. To what was then her glory and her pride. Of course, no picture taken then would show The things (I pause to blush!) that were below Her dress, whose major function was to hide.

"Ah, yes, old friend, I surely do agree," Said I, "the years have favored you and me— And every other man who isn't blind. There may be some who mourn 'the good old days' But you and I will gaily sing the praise Of all the blessings that today we find."

New Speed Limit Does Not Permit Reckless Speeding

California's new speed limit of forty miles per hour, which becomes effective July 25, does not open up the state's highways to heedless fast driving, according to George E. Sandford, general attorney for the California State Automobile Association. Reckless speeding remains outlawed, the automobile association attorney explained in a statement today discussing highway speed both from the legal viewpoint and as a matter of safety and courtesy.

"Safety, care and prudence continue to govern the operation of motor vehicles in California," said Sandford, "possibly even more so under the higher maximum rate allowed."

"This has been made plain by the State Division of Motor Vehicles, which recommended the increase in the speed limit from thirty-five to forty miles per hour. The division's recommendation was based on the principle of facilitating traffic. The legislature recognized this principle in writing the higher rate into the California Vehicle Act. The view was taken that the modern motor car has been developed to a point where it can be operated at this speed with safety."

"The law remains unchanged that the use of the maximum speed shall be according to the dictates of caution and common sense. The fifteen-mile limit in business districts and the twenty-mile limit in residential sections and other areas are safeguards and restrictions are unchanged."

"The law is clear and explicit, requiring the motorist to drive at a careful and prudent speed not greater than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic, and to the surface and width of the highway; and so as not to endanger the life, limb or property of any person."

"The primary rule prevails that the fixing of the maximum speed at any figure does not mean that operators of vehicles are privileged to drive at that speed unless it is safe to do so."

"Furthermore, no 'inching' over the forty-mile mark will be allowed. The five-mile-an-hour leeway taken by many motorists under the old thirty-five-mile limit and countenanced in some parts of the state is no more. The 'courtesy' five miles has been enacted into law, and the motorists should stay within the law."

"Traffic will undoubtedly be speeded by this change, without sacrifice of safety. There remains, however, a companion move of enforcement that the full benefit of the new limit may be enjoyed by traffic."

"The slow-moving vehicle should not be permitted to block the highway by hogging the center of the road. It is useless to build broad highways and increase the speed limit to facilitate traffic if the snail's-pace driver is permitted to hold up a long line of traffic behind."

"Motorists who prefer to proceed slowly should keep well to the right of the road. Some there are who would rather lose life itself than to give way an inch of the center of the road. This dangerous practice forces those who seek to pass in a lawful manner within the speed limit to drive far over to the wrong side of the road. Traffic is not only hampered and congested but a positive danger is created by the slow driver disregarding common courtesy and rules of the road."

"There is just as much danger, if not more, at low speed in the wrong place on the highway, as at high speed in the proper lane of travel."

PERMIT GRANTED FOR PROPOSED BAY SPAN

After many months of preliminary consideration, a franchise was granted in Monday by the board of supervisors to the promoters of a second bay bridge. The parties securing the permit for the bridge were Frank C. Towns, Mark E. Noon and A. W. Denel, promoters of the Little Coyote Point bridge project just south of San Mateo.

The franchise was granted by the board of supervisors after revised plans and specifications had been studied by the board, and features which had been objected to by the War Department had been eliminated. The resolution for granting the franchise was introduced by Supervisor Rosalie M. Brown of San Mateo.

The proposed bridge will span the bay between Little Coyote Point in this county and a point on the Alameda county side near the town of Haywards. The bridge is estimated to cost $7,500,000. The bridge will be 37,567 feet. The owners of the franchise estimate that the proposed structure will carry an average of 3000 pleasure cars and 450 trucks daily. The annual maintenance cost is placed by the builders at $340,000.

SUITS FILED HERE FOR MATERIAL COSTS

Speiss, Louis Graf, Max Graf, General Mortgage Company, Mitchell, Jackson & Co., and others. The suits total $5,899.

The other suits are filed by the architectural company and total $1800. The defendants are Fred H. Speiss, Louis Graf, Max Graf, Occidental Properties Inc., General Mortgage Company, Mission Building and Loan Association, California Pacific Title and Trust Company, W. A. Heilmann, V. C. Knight, Charles F. Mausser, J. E. Higgins Lumber Company, San Mateo Planning Mill Company, W. Weaver, H. Parnell, C. Rogers and others.

MILTON SILLS IN POWERFUL DRAMA

Men who have lost their faith in humanity are prone to seek out-of-the-way places in which to bury themselves and their troubles. The remote corners of the earth are peopled by such disillusioned, unfortunates, and "Framed," which comes to the Sequoia Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, is the story of such a man.

Milton Sills is an officer in the French army during the World War and on being falsely accused and court-martialed goes in an embittered state to the diamond mines of Brazil. There he is trapped by a modern Circe and adds all womankind to his other hates. In the end, through the love of a pure girl, he regains his normal state of mind and all ends happily.

Horse Show Scheduled On University Campus

Mand Kennedy owned by John E. Short, of Sacramento, doing five feet and making a desperate and successful effort to get over. Horse and rider will be seen at the Palo Alto Horse Show, August 8 to 13.

Sponsoring a great horse show on Leland Stanford Jr. University campus for the benefit of the home for convalescent children, the Northern California Horse Show Association composed of men prominent in the social and financial world of San Francisco and the peninsula has issued through its manager A. P. Fleming, a preliminary classification list offering $25,000 prize money to be contested for during the week of August 8-13 at six evening and two matinee performances.

This amount is the largest ever offered for the initial effort of any horse show and will ensure the presence of exhibitors from all parts of the United States.

The founders and financial guarantors of the show are Athol McBean, president; Timothy Hopkins, R. Stanley Dollar, Herbert Fleischacker, Mrs. William Matson, Mrs. W. P. Roth, G. Essex Car Makes Great Hit Here

Sweeping sales records far surpassing any of the past, the new line of Essex super-sizes has literally taken Redwood City by storm during the first two weeks of its premier showing at the show rooms of E. G. Hinds & Co., Redwood City, Hudson-Essex dealer.

Not only is this spontaneous reception local. The new cars have met a nation-wide reception overwhelming all previous mid-season showings, according to word received yesterday from the Hudson Motor Car Company of Detroit.

Orders for new cars received by that company within the past week make up an interesting barometer on national prosperity. Such important centers as New York City, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and Detroit ordered an average of twice as many Essex cars for immediate delivery as for this season a year ago, it is reported. Minneapolis, Cleveland, Kansas City, Atlanta and Salt Lake City asked two and a half times, Denver and San Francisco three times, Des Moines three and a half times and Seattle four times.

"According to these figures," said E. G. Hinds, "this series of Essex cars give every indication of being the most popular and widely demanded six-cylinder automobiles ever built.

"When it is considered that these cars provide a most remarkable combination of value and attractiveness this is most surprising. It is no one quality or characteristic which has made Essex the outstanding automobile of its class. It is rather its performance plus appearance, comfort and easy riding, plus its complete standard of finish and refinement. In all the qualities which the modern motorist requires, Essex is unquestionably a leader.

"Throughout this year Essex has scored success after success, but how with its many improvements there is every reason to look for the greatest triumph of all.

Care of the Refrigerator

A Point Which Many Housewives Overlook

Because the operation of an ice-cooled refrigerator is simplicity itself, the average housewife is very apt to neglect giving it any attention. If it were a complicated device, filled with wheels, levers, and thimbles, she probably would anticipate spending every Sunday morning working on it, just like dad does with the car. But a simple thing like a refrigerator—well, what is there to be done?

It is true that a refrigerator does not require very much care other than replenishing the ice. Month in and month out, it can be depended upon to keep its contents fresh and wholesome. It doesn't need any fussing or fixing or adjusting. But there is one thing that should be done, at least every three or four months. That is a thorough cleaning out of the drain pipe leading from the ice chamber.

The average person thinks of the function of a refrigerator as merely keeping food at the proper low degree of temperature. This is, of course, its principal purpose. But it performs another task almost as important.

When you put foods in a tightly sealed chamber, a box for instance, and allow them to remain there for a time, you will discover upon opening the box that there has been given off an odor—very often, a rather unpleasant odor. This does not necessarily mean that there is anything wrong with the food. All foods give off odors in varying degrees, and even throw off tiny particles of their own substance.

However, when you put the food in a refrigerator, it may be kept there for days without your noticing any odor. This absence of odor is not alone due to the fact that the food has been kept chilled. Rather it is due to the facts that in a refrigerator the air is always in circulation, and that the odors are absorbed by the melting ice. If there was no circulation of air and no melting of ice, there would probably be odors, no matter how cold the interior of the refrigerator.

As you know, cold air is heavier than warm air. Hence the cold air from the ice chamber settles down, and the warm air from the food compartment rises up. It is chilled by the ice, and becomes cold air. Thus the air in the refrigerator is always in circulation.

Moreover, the warm air arising from the food compartment, brings with it the odors given off by the food. When this warm air comes in contact with the ice, it causes the ice to melt; and there is formed water. The odors are absorbed in this water, and carried off through the drain pipe.

Consequently it is a good plan to clean the drain pipe regularly, preferably about once a week, by pouring through a strong, hot solution of salt soda. This prevents odors and overflowing of the drain pipe.

Unable to pay a $500 fine assessed him Monday by Justice of Peace Ray Griffin for a violation of the Wright act, Pat Howland of Menlo Park was sentenced to spend the next 200 days in the county jail. He began serving his sentence Saturday. Howland was arrested early last month by Sheriff T. C. McGovern in the latter's crusade to dry up San Mateo county. He ran a restaurant at Menlo Park.

Another great army of motor tourists from all parts of the globe is chugging its way into California this summer, records of the division of Motor Vehicles revealed today.

These records show that 17,260 permits for non-resident cars were issued by the division during the first six months of 1927. On an average of three persons to a car, this would mean that more than 50,000 persons used motor transportation as the means of reaching the Golden State.

This, however, does not nearly represent the total as it is known by division officials that large numbers of cars pass through the state without securing permits as the law gives them ten days in which to do so.

These tourists left thousands of dollars in California, contributing heavily to the upkeep of the state highways by the payment of the two-cent gasoline tax.

The records for the period indicate that almost every state and country was represented by its travelers. Oregon led the list with 3543 cars. Washington was second with 335. Such far-eastern states as Ohio and New York sent 445 and 376, respectively. The complete list follows:

WATCH FOR CHILDREN

Vacation time is danger time for children, says the California State Automobile Association in a warning to motorists to watch for children in streets and an appeal to parents to keep children off public thoroughfares.

Mrs. Chas. Gould is visiting her sister in Empire City, Nevada. Judge Buck has gone to Bartlett Springs for a vacation.

Miss Elsie Mason is visiting the family of W. W. Beeson for a few weeks.

Miss Clara Shelley is spending a vacation of two weeks in Alameda county.

The Misses Edna and Nettie Anderson of San Francisco are the guests of Mrs. A. Cook.

Martin Frank, the New York agent of the Frank Tanning Co., who has been here for the past month experimenting with a new process for tanning leather, leaves for the east next week.

Dr. and Mrs. Pescia and Major Mahon and wife have moved down from San Francisco and will occupy the Sweeney place for the next two months.

Among the miners that arrived in San Francisco Tuesday from Alaska was a San Mateo county young man who struck it rich in that ice-bound region. His name is Joseph B. Hollingshead of Pescadero. He brought with him from the goldfields the neat sum of $25,000—enough to enable him to spend the remainder of his days in ease. Mr. Hollingshead was reared in Pescadero, where his parents reside. Jerry Hollingshead, the well-known Woodside politician, is his brother.

RENO CAPTIVATES CALIFORNIA SCRIBES

Reno, July 11.—Maintaining the famed hospitality of the west, the city of Reno, headed by Mayor E. E. Roberts, has kept open house the past three days for members of the California Press Association, here on their annual summer outing to meet with members of the Nevada Press Association.

Picking up the California party at Tahoe tavern Saturday morning a caravan of automobiles headed by prominent business men of Reno, carried them into this city. The Reno welcome began at the Nevada state line where Mayor Roberts personally greeted each member of the party, handed over the keys of the city to J. P. Cramer, in charge of the California party, and escorted them into the city with a motorcycle squadron. A public reception was held at the city hall where city employees and a group of representative citizens provided refreshments and placed automobiles at the command of the city's guests.

The visiting editors and their families were housed in Lincoln Hall, the boys' dormitory of the Nevada State University, located in the center of the beautiful campus, overlooking a charming little lake. J. B. Lynch, formerly of Menlo Park, is the superintendent of the grounds. The attractive appearance of the campus, lawns and numerous flower beds speak volumes for his ability as a landscape gardener and horticulturist.

Saturday afternoon was spent at the races and at 6 o'clock the Nevada Press Association entertained as a banquet. President Bert Selkirk of the Gardnerville Courier-Record, presided and introduced E. C. Mulachy of the Sparks Tribune, who extended the official greetings of the Nevada publishers. C. O. Dunbar of the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat, responded for California, expressing the hearty appreciation of the guests for the entertainment provided by Mayor Roberts, citizens of Reno and the Nevada Press Association.

The evening was spent at the Nevada Transcontinental Highway exposition, where W. A. Shepard of Auburn, California, commissioner to the exposition, acted as host at the California building. Governor Fred Balzar, popular governor of the Silver State, welcomed the visitors to Nevada. Making them feel at home with his democratic spirit of hospitality.

Saturday was also California Day at the exposition and Senator Jackman of Sacramento responded as the personal representative of Governor C. C. Young. Assemblyman C. M. Woodbridge of Placer county, California, also responded to the governor's welcome and acted as chairman of the evening, following a most graceful introduction by Mayor Roberts.

The exposition grounds proved a source of enchanting wonder to the visitors, with its attractive exhibit, and its alluring setting Francisco in accordance with the along the banks of the Truckee in the memory of Scott's "loving friend," Phil N. Lillenthal.

A similar bequest was made to Walter S. Martin, Scott's son-in-law, for distribution among the Catholic charities of San Francisco. The will also bequeathed $2000 to the Bay's Aid Society of San Francisco and $1000 to a "faithful servant" of Scott's household, Miss Margaret McRary.

Every other household employee of the ironmaster, through the terms of his will, will receive $50 for each year in his employ. The residue of the estate will be distributed equally among his three children.

The document filed by Scott's attorneys, the law firm of Brobeck, Phleger & Harrison, offers an interesting commentary on the times. The original will was made on August 3, 1905, and has been augmented by five codicils. In the first will Scott bequeathed $50,000 each to his children, the amount that they will receive as a primary bequest through the will as filed.

On July 6, 1906, just three months after the earthquake and fire which temporarily halted business in San Francisco, Scott made a codicil reducing the family bequests to $25,000 each, explaining that he took this course "because of the change in my circumstances owing to the great calamity that has recently befallen San Francisco."

On January 27, 1910, when he had retained the presidency of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company for almost four years, another codicil was dictated which increased the initial amounts willed his children to the $50,000 listed in the original will.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Long and Mr. and Mrs. John McCrea and their families expect to leave Sunday for a week's vacation to be spent on a motor trip on the Redwood highway and in Oregon.

Jury Upheld Whitman in Emphatic Manner

In all his life Whitman was in court but once, and that was rather a joke. While fishing in a pond near Babylon one day, not far from his father's farm, he was continually annoyed by a mischievous boy determined to have his fun, if not at the expense of the fish then at Whitman's. Finally exasperated, the latter coaxed the lad to row near in his boat, and then administered a sound thrashing with his rod. The culprit father had Walt arrested, entrusting the prosecution of the case in the justice court to Gen. Nicholas Uhall. Sure of himself, Whitman undertook his own defense. He admitted the thrashing, but excused it on the ground that he was defending the vested rights of fishermen. The jury, whose foreman was a hard-headed farmer with a Yorkshire brogue, returned almost immediately.

"Have you arrived at a verdict?" asked the justice.

"We 'ave, your honor."

"What is the verdict?"

"We find 'e didn't 'it 'im 'alf 'ard enough."

Despite the repeated protest on the part of the justice that the form of the verdict was irregular, the verdict stood. From "Whitman, an interpretation in Narrative," by Emory Holloway.

Dogs of St. Bernard Find Snow Handicap

The dogs to be found today in the great and little St. Bernard passes in Switzerland are of a smaller and less striking type than formerly. They are a cross between the Newfoundland and the sheep dog of the Pyrenees. They have been credited, however, with rather more than they can perform, says Charles Lincoln Freeston in the Motor Travel Magazine.

A Swiss professor of Geneva, given to making adventurous cross-country journeys on skis, relates that on one occasion, when he was within sight of the great St. Bernard hospice, the dogs came rushing out, but were unable to reach him through the soft snow, in which they floundered hopelessly. He is of the opinion that the uses of the famous dogs are more limited than is popularly supposed.

One can conceive them as being highly serviceable in tracking a weary wayfarer overcome by a sudden blizzard on the road itself, but even St. Bernard dogs cannot walk over snow that is both deep and soft.

Czar's Coat in Museum

Occupying conspicuous positions in the Museum of Terror maintained in Moscow by the Russian state police (formerly known as the Tchecha and now as the G. P. U.) are the coat worn by Nicholas II the day the last of the czars was executed in Ekaterinburg, in July, 1918; the jacket of the Czarina Alexandra, and the uniform worn by Admiral Kolchak when he was shot by the Red army. According to an article recently printed in the Neues Wiener Journal, another exhibit in the museum contains the heart of a former president of the Leninrad Tchecha who was shot by a student. The museum has a large collection of knouts and other implements of punishment and torture used in czarist days.

Bad Enough at That

Huckleberry Pendleton is a well-known character in Wisconsin. Not long since, shortly after dark, an acquaintance found him prone by the roadside, moaning. "What's the matter, Huck?" he inquired.

"I'm ruptured," replied the unfortunate one. "Heard it snap. Get me somewhere so's I kin be taken care of."

He was assisted home and a doctor called. The next day the samaritan met the physician.

"How's Huck's rupture?" he queried.

"Rupture, nothing," was the response. "Huck only busted off a suspender button."—Outlook.

The Other One

The captain saw a young recruit trying to make his breakfast with an amateurish fry. He showed him how to make a quick-cooking fry.

"Look at the time you're wasting," he said. "When I was in the Himalayas I often had to go about two miles in the jungle, shoot my food, skin or pluck it, then cook and eat it, and return to camp under half an hour. Then he added: 'Of course, you have heard of the Himalayas?'"

"Yes, sir," replied the recruit, "and also of Ananias."

"Forbidden Island"

The island of Fernando, Noronha, in the South Atlantic ocean, off the coast of Brazil, in latitude 3 degrees 50 minutes south and longitude 32 degrees 25 minutes west is known as the Forbidden island. No women are allowed on this island and no one is permitted to own a boat. All intercourse with shipping is strictly regulated. The island belongs to Brazil, and is a place of exile and imprisonment for male convicts.

Old Economic Theory

The labor theory of value, as expounded chiefly by Adam Smith, David Ricardo and Karl Marx, is the economic theory that the value of a commodity depends, in the long run, on the amount of labor expended in its production. "It is natural," says Adam Smith, "that what is usually the produce of two days' labor or two hours' labor should be worth double what is usually the produce of one day's or one hour's labor."

Woodside

Mr. and Mrs. Bliss Herrmann, with their children, have come from San Francisco to Woodside for the months of July and August. They have rented the George Steffens home.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Moffitt, their daughter and niece, Miss Alice Moffitt and Miss Claudine Spreckles, have returned from the north where they went for a two weeks' stay. They visited Banff, Victoria and Lake Louise.

Mrs. John Fletcher gave a barbecue last week at her home here. Her guests included Miss Cella Bishop, Miss Sallie Taylor of Spokane, Miss Sylvia Walker of Bethlehem, Pa., Miss Marion Cook, Miss Helena Hawkins, Miss Mary Forbes and several midshipmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Jackling have returned from their trip to Alaska.

Joseph L. Rosa Jr. left for Portland on Thursday. There he will meet his mother and his wife who have been spending several weeks in Oregon and with them will spend some time at Klamath Lake before returning home.

Joseph H. Hallett Jr. and Mrs. Hallett have returned from their vacation trip to the Yellowstone Park. Their speedometer registered 3600 miles for the trip and they had four full days in the park.

The smaller truck of the Woodside Fire Department was partly demolished on Sunday when it was run into near the Searsville lake by a coupe driven by one who was not as completely sober as is desirable in one piloting an automobile. Repairs to the truck are being rushed at Neuman Bros. garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Levey entertained about thirty of their friends at an all-day party on Sunday.

Mrs. Percy D. Jarvis, who was called hastily to Los Angeles by the illness of her sister, returned on Sunday.

REDWOOD CITY WOMAN FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Suit for divorce was begun on Monday by Mrs. Theresa Coffey against Louis J. Coffey of 12 Hyde street. Mrs. Coffey charges cruelty as the cause of her action, and asks for $75 per month as support for a minor child. Coffey is a well-known local contractor.

The couple were married in San Francisco on March 1, 1916, and have one child, 7 years of age. The plaintiff in the action is represented by Keys & Erskine, San Francisco attorneys.

Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Jones and son, Grant, spent Sunday at the Big Basin.

Umpire Hart Spikes Hornsby in Odd Play

The injury to Rogers Hornsby in a recent Giant-Red game at Cincinnati was acquired in a manner new to baseball players and spectators. Hornsby made a full-away slide to reach third on his triple in the twelfth inning when Umpire Hart stepped on him. Hart was so close to the play that his spikes clamped down on Hornsby's left hand and lacerated it in half a dozen places, all on the back of the hand. Being stepped on by an umpire is the new part.

JOE STECHER'S INCOME IS BIG

Invidious Comparison With Joe Stecher and Ruth.

Jack Curley, promoter of wrestling, says that Babe Ruth may be the highest salaried ball player in the world, but what he will get out of baseball will not make him the athlete with the greatest annual income. He says he can name several wrestlers, any one of whom earns more than $70,000 a season. "Babe is the champion in the business of making home runs," continued Jack, "so it would not be amiss to compare his salary with what Joe Stecher, the champion wrestler, earns annually from the mat game. For several years Joe has earned about $150,000 a season. Joe's case proves there's more to be made by wrestling than by playing ball, and Stecher had the right dope a long time ago, for he quit the diamond to make his way in the world as a wrestler. "Stecher played ball as a professional with the Salt Lake City club of the Pacific Coast league in 1917. When he wasn't covering second base he used to wrestle. The Philles obtained him through the drafting process, but Joe evidently thought more about wrestling than he did of starting what might have been a successful career in the big leagues. He refused to report to the Philles, quit baseball and started out on the road, but eventually led him to the world wrestling championship. He never remained in baseball, he had received anything like what Ruth is getting. Joe was a strong fellow even when he was with the Salt Lake Bees. "Of course, in order to earn what Joe must keep himself busy. His season is just the reverse of a ball player's. Joe trains in the summer months at Long Beach, Calif., and starts his annual mat campaign early in the fall. He stops a couple of weeks after the baseball season is opened. During the wrestling season he keeps himself in shape by giving all comers a shot at his title."

Mack Sells Branom

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, announces that Carl Yerkes, young pitcher from Hattboro, Pa., had been released to the Portland (Ore.) club of the Pacific Coast league. Homer returned to the world for a brief visit. "Who is this bird that been making so free with my name?" he wanted to know. Some of the fellows introduced him to Babe Ruth. Coached by Billy Disch, the Texas University Steers have won their fifteenth baseball title in sixteen seasons. Disch has repeatedly refused offers to pilot various minor and major league teams. Bud Castle, son of Dr. M. H. Castle, Cleveland Baseball Club physician, has been elected captain of Ohio uni-versity's 1928 baseball team. Jesse Glass and James Miller were picked to lead next year's track and tennis teams. When the Giants left Cincinnati, Harold (Buck) Greene accompanied them as their new trainer. Greene has served as trainer of athletic teams at St. Xavier college, Cincinnati, for several years. In Philadelphia the other day, after a pair of wild hitting affairs, a newspaper man found Tommy Connolly, dean of umpires, ruminating. "In the old days," said Tom, "when a pitcher was no good they took him out. Nowadays when a pitcher is no good they take the ball out."

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

Syracuse has optioned Pitcher Al Grabowski, left-handed pitcher, to the Houston club of the Texas league.

Syracuse has turned Outfielder Biggs and Infielder McCall over to the Danville club of the Three-I league.

From the baseball arenas we are informed that this season everything on the diamond will be on the square.

Richmond has returned Pitcher Bill Clancy to the New Haven club of the Eastern league. He developed a sore arm.

A woman dropped unconscious when one of Babe Ruth's homers whizzed by her ear. He hits 'em where they faint.

Joseph Griffin of Detroit has been named track captain for Notre Dame in 1928. He is a hurdler and high jumper.

Rochester has conditionally purchased Arthur Cousins, pitcher, from the Fairmont club of the Middle-Atlantic league.

Another very adroit paradox is the word "contest" as applied to a ball game in which the Yanks are 11 ahead in the fifth.

The New York Giants have released Sanford Hamby, young catcher, to the New Orleans club of the South-eastern league.

Montreal, the largest city on the continent without a club in organized baseball, may succeed Reading in the International league.

The big thrill in ballooning is that you haven't any more idea where you are going to land than a baseball in a Red Sox double play.

Lester Roupchik, a young right-handed pitcher, has been obtained by Reading from the Chicago Cubs. He had been with the big league club all spring.

Rochester has traded Otis Lawry, Infielder, and Ralph Hend, pitcher, to the Rochester club for Pitcher Prudhomme, a right-hander. Prudhomme is a youngster.

A baseball umpire has been suggested as the one to take the place of the blindfolded man who draws the lucky number out of the jar in a New York lottery.

The longest game in the major leagues was played by Boston and Brooklyn, the two teams battling in 26 innings in Boston in 1920, the game ending in a tie at one-all.

Jim Cooney, Infielder, and Tony Kauffman, right-handed pitcher, have been traded by the Chicago Nationals to the Philadelphia Nationals for Harold Carlson, right-handed pitcher.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, announces that Carl Yerkes, young pitcher from Hattboro, Pa., had been released to the Portland (Ore.) club of the Pacific Coast league.

Homer returned to the world for a brief visit. "Who is this bird that been making so free with my name?" he wanted to know. Some of the fellows introduced him to Babe Ruth.

Motor Boat's Cost Is Greatly Reduced

The price of a motor boat now has been reduced below the flivver stage of automobilizing, according to figures of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers. A completely equipped motor boat capable of seating four can be purchased for $180. The outfit consists of a 12-foot boat costing $85 and weighing 75 pounds. It is equipped with a one-cylinder outboard motor costing $115 and weighing 20 pounds.

May Sutton Is Back

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., former holder of the Pacific Coast, the National Women's and the world's tennis championship titles, has returned to the game and try and win new laurels. She has already demonstrated her prowess at the Pacific Coast tennis championship match held in San Francisco.

Sporting Squibs

Los Angeles girl athletes have taken up lacrosse.

Wrestling on mules is a popular and amusing sport of American soldiers at Governors Island, N. Y.

Broadway Jones and Bagenbagen, two of E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour farm racers, have been retired to the stud.

Abe Mitchell, noted British golfer and member of the British Ryder cup team captured the London Daily Mail golf tournament for professionals with an aggregate of 294.

Downfall of a Yale varsity eight for the first time in five years leaves the United States naval academy the only crew in the East that has not yet tasted defeat.

Arthur Duffy of Georgetown university was the first man to cover 100 yards in 9.35 seconds, a mark that only three others have been able to equal.

Harvard and Army football teams will clash in the fall of 1928 for the first time in 18 years. It was announced here recently. The game was set for October 20 at Cambridge.

The starting tape at all race tracks of the Canadian Racing association will be raised to a height about level with the noses of the horses instead of at their feet.

Last year's play-off in the metropolitan open golf tournament between MacDonald Smith and Gene Sarazen, which required 54 holes, was the longest in golf history.

Nearly every member of the Canadian Lacrosse club team that won the junior championship in 1889, 1890 and 1891, was present at a recent reunion in Toronto.

Japan will be represented by a picked crew in the rowing events at the coming Olympiad to be held in the Netherlands in 1928.

In the 29 years of his activity as a flight promoter, Tex Rickard has only been forced to postpone two events as account of bad weather.

The worm finally turned. "Some day," he announced in ominous tones, "I'm going to come home and polish up all my golf clubs on a guest towel."

ABIJAH AND HIS NEW ADAGE

(By D. J. Walsh.)

BENT and a little gray, a little wrinkled, a heart too patiently smiling, at heart brave, and the kindest of men.

She was years younger, an inch taller; molded in self-elected duty; given to crazes of the uplift; at heart mild, and the kindest of women.

At present the no-breakfast fever had the entire family in its grip. The family always became converted, or, to be, whenever Mrs. A. J. Mathews adopted a new cult. Mrs. A. J. Mathews was about thirty-five years old, but at that time was addicted to "old-lady shoes," dull gray or brown dresses made on the severest lines, and drew her really pretty hair into an unbecoming knot. She was a creature of strong convictions.

If Mrs. Mathews enjoyed the no-breakfast regime, and if the twins survived it, that is no sign it was satisfactory to him, her worthy husband. There were morning hours when this good man felt he was dying of famine. From five o'clock till twelve is a jump, and if you count back to supper time, as sufferers will, it is chasmal. Abijah—that's what the A stood for—took himself out for a walk one fine morning; he was too nervous to work any longer on his sermon. Although for the last two years he had been unattached to any church, he tried to write a good new sermon every week; when he had a chance he was sent as a supply. In fact, supply seemed to be his only calling; it began to look like a life job. This particular morning he wanted to think something new and fresh; he felt he was "going stale," without a single bite of breakfast on which to base celebration.

He would call on his old Aunt Solace, he smiled faintly when he heard the peep, peep, of a stout cane coming rapidly. She was tall and bright eyed; she moved swiftly and surely in spite of her lameness.

"Bless you, my boy," she shrilled, pleasantly, and her face became all one good smile. "How is everything, world, flesh and devil?"

"My part of it is—" He was just going to say, "hungry," but that would have been the same as asking a hand-out, and getting it; well, Aunt Solace, he continued nonchalantly, "I've all seem pretty well. Livonia thinks the new plan beneficial to her, and it hasn't harmed the twins up to date."

"How about Abijah?" Her sudden wide smile was almost wicked.

He twinkled; he knew his own weaknesses, but he would sometimes exclaim: "Aunt Solace, I've sometimes thought I got a bad start in life; my name—but what can't be cured must be endured."

"For fifty-one years you've been getting bad starts, young man! 'Tisn't too late, though, to get a few good starts."

He looked inquiringly up. She was a good four inches taller than he, and beaming down on him like a good-humored and intelligent bird. She answered his look. "Abijah, what can't be endured must be cured! I told you, many years ago, to drop that name you hate so, and just use John. I told you to tell the people you preach to that they're a pack of sinners all, and the poorest preacher ever stood in their pulpit sacrifices lots more than they did, and likely as not was a heap too good for them. I told you—"

She stopped; she hadn't told him this, nor would she; she wouldn't criticize a man's wife, not even the wife of her favorite nephew.

He read between the lines of her wide smile; he felt himself making a sudden resolve; he rose to go. "Thank you, Aunt Solace; now, if—if you happen to hear some new leaf rustling a bit noisily, why, maybe I'm turning it over."

Instead of going to work on that sermon, that wonderful best sermon he never yet had written, he trudged on foot to the next town, walked straight to his chief restaurant and ordered the best breakfast to be had at that betwixt-and-between hour. It included steak, a delicacy forbidden with the rise of the no-breakfast scheme. He came home on a train, and for two hours worked on a sermon which he faintly hoped would prove to be that fitting wonderful best. The dinner-bell rang; he looked up, smiled; he was waiting for a voice. It came. From the foot of the stairs Livonia called in patient, strained notes. "Mr. Mathews, dinner is ready; didn't you hear the bell?"

"Yes, dear, but I didn't care for any."

This amazing answer brought her upstairs. He dashed some ink, and bent over his page. He looked up, kindly and patiently; "I have just eaten, dear; I shan't want anything for some time."

Mr. Mathews was not happy, but he was determined; at 3:30 he threw everything aside and pattered off to a train. He soon was in the same eating-house. The small restaurant of the afternoon was spent in his study and was mostly devoted to the business of justifying himself to an accusing conscience. Conscience told him he was selfish, cruel; reason answered, "no such thing!" Then he muttered to himself, just as if he had invented the new adage, "What can't be endured must be cured!"

The supper-bell rang and got no answer from the minister's study. Then without preliminary calling Livonia came up with a firm tread. "The supper is ready, Mr. Mathews," she announced.

"Yes, dear; I heard the bell, but I don't care for supper; I've already had two good meals." He dipped more ink, and wrote absently, "John."

"Is this sort of thing to be kept up long?" Livonia asked patiently.

"Just as long as necessary," he answered patiently but dryly.

Toward evening, three days later, he coasted the village with rapid strides toward the distant bungalow; he ran up the steps like a boy and twisted the gong. Aunt Solace was reading; She glanced up with her quick smile: "You look—just right, Abijah; lots better than the other day."

"My name is John," said he. "I can stay only a minute, Aunt Solace; Livonia's promised something especially nice for supper, chicken; I'd hate to disappoint her. But after all, breakfast at seven is the most welcome of the three meals at present."

"Has she—?" Aunt Solace still would not criticize her nephew's wife.

"Livonia's been converted to the early breakfast idea, for hard-working people like me." He called the last phrase from the sidewalk.

At the door he was met by wife, twins and a visiting deacon from Yonkers Town, where he had supplied, hopelessly, four times. "Yes! no mistake about it," smiled the deacon; "here's the letter; we want you worst way; vote absolutely unanimous; here's the letter."

John gave his acceptance with hearty thanks: "I'll write it out later, but come now and let's taste my wife's supper." Then for the first time he noticed Livonia was wearing something extremely pretty; pink, and the necklace, but the dress was new.

The strangest thing about it all was that John really had written a wonderful sermon, the great sermon of his dreams, during those few rebellious days; and there was a happy feeling in his mind that he could write seven hundred and fifty more almost as good.

Famous in History

The lofty citadel which formed the nucleus of an ancient Greek city and the city's chief defense was called the acropolis. However, the word acropolis is now specially applied to the rocky eminence at Athens, the capital of Greece.

On this acropolis stand the remains of the Parthenon, and it was here, Mars Hill, that St. Paul addressed the wise men of Athens.

Some Tree Lore

The superstitious believe that a calamity will befall the nation in a year when the ash produces no locks and keys. Of the rowan tree we are told that, according to the legend, it was from the rowan tree that the cross of Calvary was made. As for the poplar, there is a folk belief that when it turns up the whites of its leaves there is going to be a storm.

Popcorn

When popcorn refuses to "pop" it may be too dry and it may not be dry enough. If it is this year's corn, it may not be dry enough. Keeping in a warm place for a week or two will improve it. If the corn is old, it is probably too dry. Putting it in a paper sack on a sheltered porch, where it will not get wet but absorb some moisture from the air, will help.

Flood Loss in Holland

During the Fourteenth and Fifteenth centuries Holland suffered from great floods, in several of which the loss of life exceeded 100,000 persons.

Hermit Gives Simple Recipe for Longevity

An amazing secret of longevity is claimed to have been discovered by a Korean, regarded as a saint, named Skajkinan, amazing in its simplicity as well as in its anticipated results. For it consists in nothing but a diet of water and small cakes made of pine bark. Upon such food Skajkinan is said to have subsisted for many years. He is now sixty years old and "still going strong," and expresses the utmost confidence in living for two hundred ninety years longer, thus rounding out three centuries and a half.

Such an age is, of course, much less than that credited to the antediluvian patriarchs. But it is precisely twice that attained by Abraham, and, of course, vastly greater than that attained by any one since his time. Skajkinan is a hermit, who lives on Corea's holy mountain, Kongosan, and told of his method of longevity to the members of the Japanese Peer club of Tokyo. He says he found the secret described in ancient books,
